A special thank you to SGT Angie Chaney for all her hard work that went into publishing this GREAT newsletter! I would also like to thank SFC Charnell Mims, Kyndra Hill and Jeri Jones for brainstorming ideas this summer. We are off to a great start with your interest and ideas.

"What you do speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say."

Remember...all KB personnel and their families are invited to attend the FRG meetings and functions. You are what makes this organization! So, if you are new to our Army, or been away from doing FRG-stuff for a while or always had great ideas of what an FRG 'ought to be like' now is your chance to be an active part of one! Any unit's FRG is only as good as the volunteers that participate. Feel free to contact me if you have any questions, ideas or want to get involved at: KeyesBuildingFRG@hotmail.com

This is going to be a FUN year! I hope to see you at Organizational Day and at our September meeting!

FRG MEETING

The next FRG meeting will be held on Wednesday the 17th of September from 1200-1300 in the Keyes Building Conference Room (KBCR). There will be a history tour of the Keyes Building during the meeting.

This is open to all spouses and personnel that work at the Keyes Building.

Please feel free to come and join us at our next meeting.

Marriage and Army Life by: Monte Chaney

How do you think marriage and being in the Army are the same? Here is a little hint:

When your wife asks you to do something, with out question you say "yes" (like this article for me). That got me to think about how married life and the Army are the same. Both marriage and the Army are give and take. You mostly get back what you give. I have also notice that a lot of the same rules apply, such as:

If my wife asked me to take out the trash and I don't, then my wife will be angry (been there, done that). If you are in the military and you are asked to take out the trash and you don't, your supervisor will be angry.

If you are late for dinner with your spouse, the conversation at dinner will not be great. If you are late for work, the conversation with your supervisor will not be good either. Cont: pg 2

Never believe that a few caring people can't change the world. For, indeed, that's all who ever have."

Marriage and Army Life

If you think about the rules and how they apply to each other, then you see that married life and the Army have a lot in common.

There has been a lot of talk lately about Article 88 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Now what would happen if I disrespected my wife in public, for me I would rather have the one year confinement, it would be safer.

It's all common sense, for example: I can not sell my wife's jewelry on Ebay because I would find my self in big trouble, just like you cannot sell your office computer on Ebay. I can not go out and buy a hundred pounds of beef jerky and you can not go out and order a million ball point pens.

I think marriage and the Army are both great institutions. I also think that people who have long productive careers in the military will also be the ones with long and strong marriages. Those are the people that understand the secret to both is the same. In both marriage and the Army it takes commitment on your part, determination to do it right, and at least a little common sense to hold it all together.

A Local "Must Visit":

Garten Café/Tea Room on the Hauptstrasse: A charming place to eat breakfast or meet a friend for tea. The inside is elegant but cozy. However, the best part is the beautiful outdoor garden seating area. The food is wonderful and reasonably priced. They have everything from a typical European breakfast to scrambled eggs and bacon. It is located near the church on the corner of Karl Ludwig Strasse and the Hauptstrasse.
